

CREGGER

Prosodic, acrylic on canvas, 30x40 inches

New Work | Spring 2013 [Magicicada]

Magicicada

A series exploring the phenomenon of the 17-year cicadae ... the synchronicity with which these vibrantly colored ancient creatures appear, the accompanying sounds and frenzy, their strange life cycle and its mystic symbolism, and a lack of defense mechanisms. There is a lesson in that they harm nothing but a few trees.

Duane Cregger

Duane Cregger is a contemporary artist working in oils and acrylics. His large, brightly colored and heavily textured abstract works hang in private and corporate collections throughout the United States and in the Caribbean. His work in an intimate, abstract narrative of his life in the rural mountains of Virginia and his rural-to-urban-to-rural migration experiences.

For more information and to see other art works, visit www.duanecregger.com.

Tambourine [MAGICICADA] | acrylic on canvas, 40x40 inches

Echolocation [Magicicada] | acrylic on canvas, 30x40 inches

Chitter Chatter [Magicicada] | acrylic on canvas, 40x40 inches

Tapper [Magicicada] | acrylic on canvas, 30x30 inches

Clade 1 of 3 [Magivicada] | acrylic on canvas, 36x36 inches

Rhapsodic [Magicicada] | acrylic on canvas with oil stick, 46x66 inches

Chameleon [Magicicada] | acrylic on canvas, 36x48 inches

Clade 2 of 3 [Magivicada] | acrylic on canvas, 36x36 inches

Babel Babble [Magicicada] | acrylic on canvas, 36x48 inches

Clade 3 of 3 [Magivicada] | acrylic on canvas, 36x36 inches

Episodic Triptych [Magicicada] | oil on canvas, 48x72 inches (each panel 24x48 inches)

Yattering [Magicicada] | acrylic on canvas, 40x40 inches